Local Students Pitch Marketing Plan for Sharon Spring Fling

It was West Middlesex High School students who came out on top in Penn State Shenango's inaugural Marketing Competition on Saturday, April 2, held in the campus' auditorium. Lakeview High School was close behind in second place, and Hickory High School students took third. The event was held in conjunction with the Greater Sharon Associates (GSA) and its Downtown Sharon Spring Fling. High school teams of two to five students were required to create and present an integrated marketing plan for this year's Sharon Spring Fling. Students from Farrell High School and Mercer County Career Center also gave strong presentations.

"The judges were so impressed by each team's ingenuity and effort," said Laura Ackley, general manager of Donna's Diner, Buhl Mansion Guest House and director of marketing for Tara-A Country Inn. "We thought all of the students did an excellent job. The panel of judges had to grade not only on creativity, but feasibility, professionalism, and budget; an overall plan which could be implemented to promote downtown Sharon's Spring Fling event on May 7. It was very challenging to pick just one winner; each team had elements of their presentation that could be used. Kudos to the students and their advisors!"

The competition included three parts: a preliminary event held in February at the Shenango campus where students heard presentations on "Building an Integrated Marketing Plan" by Penn State Shenango Business Instructor Georgia Macris, and the Sharon Spring Fling event by Laura Ackley; a meeting with GSA members at Visit Mercer County PA in March about the Downtown Sharon Spring Fling; and the actual competition held in April.

During the February event, students heard from several media account representatives, including Su Killar, iHeart Radio; Stefan Marcella, The Sharon Herald; Eric Doan, WFMJ; and Sara McCauley, Visit Mercer County PA/Social Sara. Each representative talked about his or her form of media, in addition to speaking about ways of getting free publicity and exposure.

The students had a total of six weeks to prepare their integrated marketing plan before they returned on April 2 where they presented in front of a panel of six judges, including Penn State Shenango Business Instructors Lisa Bertin, Georgia Macris, and Michael Wachter; Penn State Shenango staff member Liz Izenas; Visit Mercer County PA Sales and Marketing Coordinator Carmen Aiello; and Laura Ackley.

"We were so pleased to have five local schools participate in our inaugural Marketing Competition," said Chuck Greggs, associate director of Admissions. "We originally discussed crafting an event where the students could create a plan for a fictitious organization; however, after meeting with Laura Ackley, who is instrumental in organizing Sharon's Spring Fling each year, we came up with the idea to have the students put together an actual marketing plan for an actual event, and I think the outcome was great. We are looking forward to next year's event."

Sharon Housing Rehabilitation Program

The City of Sharon's Housing Rehabilitation Program offers assistance to low to moderate income homeowners for needed repairs, such as roof replacement, electrical system update, hot water tank, furnace, windows, doors, porches, stairs and unsafe or defective conditions elsewhere. The program also assists those homeowners who have disabilities and need handicap accessibility ramps and baths/showers placed in their homes. Through the Lead Hazard Reduction Program, residents with children under the age of six, residing or visiting, may be eligible for repairs to protect children from lead based paint hazards. Each year the city renovates 20 to 25 homes, and mitigates lead hazards in approximately 10 houses.

"It's a really great program that more residents should take advantage," says Frank Smeraglia, Sharon's rehabilitation specialist.
